

Math Study Groups helps me with my math. I get to work with the same people in my math class on homework. Ms. Song is always around to help us with our work. She also gives us assignments to keep us learning. The most helpful thing in math study groups is that I can get all of my homework done. If I finish my math homework before homework time is over, she lets me do other homework, and if I have no homework, she gives me something to work on that's math related. Working in groups has helped me by letting me work with other students with similar homework. If I need help, I can ask the people in my group for help before I ask the teacher. The oldest students help me by allowing me to ask them for help if I don't know what to

Math study groups helped me get work done because I don't have much help at home and I don't get work done at home. I can get a lot of work done here. People in my group helped me. Since the older kids already learned the concept so they can help me, and with the older kids, they make learning more fun Kevin
